To One Young Man in Ten

"The Fellow Who Will"

Your kind is scarce—the sidewalk's full of the fellows who won't. Everydody boosts the "fellow who will"—your kind.

They give a Y. M. C. A. building to help you sort yourself out from the "bunch who won't."

Tonight, in the building they gave you, the Association Institute opens.

Night study is too strenuous for the nine out of ten—they won't be there.

It's the "one fellow in ten" who will. He'll be their foreman next.

Well?

SOCIETY

A wedding that took place yesterday in the temple was that of Miss Margaret Romney and Richard Stewart Ballantyne, the ceremony being performed at noon by the bride's father, Bishop George Romney. In the evening a reception to about 300 guests was given at the home of the bride's brother, George Romney, Jr., in D street. A pretty autumn effect was carried out in the decorations throughout the house, autumn leaves and sunflowers being massed within the reception hall, while white asters and greenery were used in the dining room. A drawn-work cloth covered the dining table, which was lighted with green-shaded candelabra. Bows of green satin ribbon were caught at the corners of the table, and a silver basket of grapes in the different colors formed an attractive centerpiece. Those who assisted in the dining room were the Misses Gertrude Romney, Sarah Romney, Vilate Schofield, Susie Schofield, Elizabeth Stringfellow and Gladys Stewart, while the punch bowl, which was placed in the living room, was presided over by Miss Margaret Romney and Miss Evelyn Moyle. Those who assisted in receiving were Mrs. Richard A. Ballantyne, mother of the bridegroom; Mrs. Margaret Romney, mother of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. James A. Moyle and Mr. and Mrs. George Romney, Jr. The receiving party stood in the parlor, which was beautifully decorated in autumn and American Beauty roses, with ropes of smilax extending from the windows to the chandelier, from which was suspended a basket of asters and roses. The bride was gowned in a beautiful white crepe de meteor, over white satin, made en train in the princess mode, and her bouquet was a shower effect of the white bride roses. The matron of honor, Mrs. C. B. Stewart, a sister of the bride, wore a handsome robe of white lace over pink silk, and Miss Vilate Romney, the bride's cousin, who acted as bridesmaid, was gowned in a beautiful dress of pale blue crepe de meteor, with a silk net baby yoke, and trimmings in the braided effect. Her gloves and slippers were also in the pale blue shade. Both attendants carried cluster bouquets of the pink asters. The bridegroom was attended by C. B. Stewart, his best man. After Oct. 15 Mr. and Mrs. Ballantyne will be at home at 1161 Beuno avenue.

A beautiful luncheon of yesterday was that with which Miss Lucile Clark entertained twenty-five guests, the affair being complimentary to a number of the young girls who return to college on Saturday. At either end of the luncheon table, place settings of tall cut glass vases of American Beauty roses, while the centerpiece was a huge butterfly bow of red ribbons, with streamers of the ribbons drawn to the corners of the table. Smiles and ferns were scattered about the table, where cards, bearing the silver monogram of the hostess, marked the places for the Misses Norrine Thompson, Margaret Walker, Margaret McClure, Marjorie Jacobs, Bryan Houston, Dorothy Houston, Josephine Well, Dorothy Rookledge, Elsie Parsons, Georgina Moore, Juliet Banks, Gladys McConaughy, Isabella Schiffer, Margaret Dunn, Lillian Lane, Carey Marshall, Virginia Beatty, Alene McMillan, Hazel Oswald, Marion Obendorfer, Dorothy Dragnowity, Selma Wall, Alice Wall and Mary Wall. Following the luncheon the guests were entertained with a matinee party at the Orpheum.

The Plate club was delightfully entertained with a dainty yellow luncheon given yesterday at the home of Mrs. L. D. Peaslee on Third avenue. The luncheon table was bright with California poppies, the centerpiece being a low bowl of the golden blossoms. Autumn leaves in the red and yellow tints added to the attractive decorations. The place cards, which were water colors in a yellow rose design, were laid for Mrs. Grant Brown, Mrs. Charles Knapp and the following club members: Mrs. W. J. Lynch, Mrs. Joseph Taylor, Mrs. Billings, Mrs. A. C. Smith, Mrs. Fred Slade, Mrs. T. R. Black, Mrs. J. T. Treasure, Mrs. Frank Parker, Mrs. Fred Wey, Mrs. Lafayette Hanchett, Mrs. R. E. McConaughy, Mrs. N. Treloar, Mrs. Nelson, Miss Fannie O'Meara, Miss Margaret Gibbons and Mrs. Peaslee. In the parlor vases of beautiful pink roses were used in the decorations. Four tables of bridge were played, and the prizes were won by Mrs. Nelson and Mrs. Peaslee. The next meeting of the club will be held Thursday, Oct. 14, at the home of Mrs. W. J. Lynch, on South Fifth East street.

A delightful five hundred party was that given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Freeman Bassett in honor of Miss Margaret Evans, an October bride. A color scheme of yellow was carried out in the decorations, the parlor being prettily decorated in a profusion of sunflowers and autumn leaves. In the dining room a bowl of yellow nasturtiums decorated the table, and streamers of yellow ribbons were draped from the chandelier to the dining table, where the places for eight guests were marked by the single nasturtium blossoms.

Twenty guests were entertained with a musicale given last night at the home of Mrs. J. Milleron in Seventh East street. The rooms were decorated throughout in the Japanese sunflowers, and Mrs. Milleron was assisted in serving by Miss Virginia Duncan, Miss Roumania Hyde and Miss Louise Milleron. Among those participating in the charming musical program were Mrs. Charles Plummer and H. K. Hooker of Boston, while Miss Roumania Hyde delighted the guests with a number of selections on the violin.

Miss Lucile Morningstar will entertain the members of the J. T. club this afternoon at her home in East South Temple street.

Dr. and Mrs. Francis Burgette Short will entertain the members of the First Methodist church and other friends at a reception to be given this evening in the parlors of the church.

A theatre party will be given at the Salt Lake theatre this evening by Mrs. T. A. Baldwin, the complimentary

The "Modart" Corset

Exposition and Expert Fitting

By Mrs. L. C. Redding

—That there is a difference in Corsets has been amply demonstrated by Mrs. Redding in our Corset Section.

—The new Modart front laced models have created more than a sensation among the elite of this city. The introduction of the "Modart" is indeed, as we have already said, the dawn of a new corset era. Its introduction means style, figure, adaptability, elasticity, grace, ease and comfort all combined. It accentuates the perfect lines of the figure and minimizes the defects, if any; and it has a wide range of adaptability. The new gowns fit like a glove over the Modart
